juvenille court foday issued an order committing her to the State industrial school. The girl has been a ward of the juvenille court here since October 7. 1998, when a complaint charging her with incorrigibility was filed by her mother. Enama C. Haley. The court took the case in hand and found the girl a home with a resident of the courty. Since that time the girl has figured in more than half a dozen runaways, always being caught with a horse in her possession belonging to some neighbor. Judge Gunnell concluded that the girl cannot again be trusted on probation, since she has broken her promises to the court so often, and decided to leave it with the authorities of the industrial school to see if she can be reformed at that institution.

Oliver Drysdale and William Miros, lads caught by the police several days ago, who confessed to the wholesale theft of chickens, which were disposed of at local restaurants. Were also committed to the industrial school. It developed that the

WILL MAKE CANAL

WASHINGTON. April 4.—The Panama canal will have to pay the expense of its own fortifications. This appears to be the opinion of the vanguard of the army expert board which has just arrived in Washington from Panama after a careful examination of the line of the canal with reference to the selection of sites for the forts and the determination of the extent of the armament needed.

The act of 1962, though much amended by subsequent legislation would seem to carry that inference and consequently the cost of fortification probably will be met by the issue of Panama canal bonds. It is impossible at present to state the cost of this work. In the first place the cost of this work. In the first place the commission has tentatively selected the sites for the defenses of the canal and at points along the line in the literior where it is exposed to destructive attack, such as the Gattin dam and the great Milaflares locks, much of this land belongs to private parties and its value must be assessed before it can be acquired.

Much heavy ordnance, some it disposed in sixteen-inch guns, probably will be required and as it takes a long time to make those big guns and transport them to the isthmus, but them in place and erect the defensive earth works and concrete construction, it will be necessary to hasten the project in order to insure its completion by the date the canal will be opened in 1914 or 1915.
